

Sarah Levy

I am the Headteacher at Old Fletton Primary School, taking up this position in April 2008, as a Governor I work with the Governing Body to inform the strategic direction of the school. Previously I was the Deputy Headteacher at Dogsthorpe Junior School. I joined the school when it was in an OFSTED category of Notice to improve, I am proud to say we are now recognised as a good school with outstanding features. I take great pride in our values of CARE and our relentless pursuit of constant improvement.

I have always wanted to work in education, completing my BEd (hons) degree straight after A levels, and completed a masters degree in leadership and management. I believe in an inclusive education for all pupils and have developed a school where this is evident in the work we do and celebrated through us holding the Equalities award. I want all children at Old Fletton to love and embrace learning and have fond memories of our time together when they reminisce about their primary days!
