

Adam White

I currently work as the National Performance Manager for Agriculture and Real Estate in the UK at Barclays bank, this gives me a wide exposure to the economic situation in the UK, and day to day means I look after a large balance sheet and have a strong understanding of finance. It also means I spend time talking to customers and trade bodies and therefore can bring a wider world view to the governing body. I have worked with small and medium businesses for over 10 years now and in this time have been on the board of the Herts Chamber of Commerce and the Hertfordshire LEP which gives me experience in the responsibility and oversight that comes with being a school governor.

Personally I was born and grew up in Peterborough, and as my daughter started school two years ago, I took a keen interest in understanding the challenges of schools and I wanted to give something back to the city which provided me with a fantastic education and experience. Old Fletton is an extraordinary school with a strong leadership team and the whole school is focussed on the educational outcomes for our children, this is all done by a hard working team who use every day to ensure every child receives a fantastic learning experience. Our role as governors is to continue to try and reduce the barriers and provide the oversight to ensure the school leadership can continue to ensure this is the number one priority every day. I am really proud to be a part of Old Fletton and in particular to Chair the finance committee and use my experience and qualifications to help bring our CARE values to life.